

Dear Emma

The child as peacefully as an infant he looks contentedly as Balm and pleasure he does not look quite so well as he did yesterday for there was a little film over his eyes in the morning our Mary and grand mother went over we all kissed him and then he was moved from Henry's bed into the great bed pretty soon as he came in our when he went down to Dr Detora he could not live long and said of he had sough in the morning he would have lived other longer and died in great distress he breathed about an hour longer and then stopped then Annet S to let mother to speak to him he turned & his head round and shut his eyes she said Henry go to God and he does. Even when he died after dinner he not moved onto the front chamber

Come in soon Anne has come home to Annie which of the scols I sent she you like best. Come to morrow of going will love to see all of them
